

Assistant Environmental Consultant

Fugro Technical Services Limited

LAU CHEUK ON ANDY

Associate of Science in Environmental Studies
Graduated in 2015

If we want to understand what it takes to be a serious student of this College, Andy offers a ready example. Andy has always been a conscientious student. He performed well academically in this College. Completing his studies in the College with an Associate of Science in Environmental Studies qualification, Andy proceeded to complete his tertiary education in UK. He pursued a Bachelor of Science (Hons) in Environmental Science degree at Plymouth University before he came back to Hong Kong to read a Master of Science in the same subject at the University of Hong Kong. Well-equipped with professional knowledge and impressive qualifications, Andy is now working as Assistant Environmental Consultant in Fugro Technical Services Ltd in the area of environmental consultancy. He is playing a significant role in the current environmental assessment of the “third runway” of the Hong Kong International Airport.
